Pouch, Awaiting Transfer From One Train to Another, Split and Miners' Pay Taken

(By Associated Press.)
Louisville, Feb. 11.—Reports reached here today that the Wisconsin Steel Company was robbed of its pay roll of $50,000 at Corbin last night. The company operates mines at Benham, Harlan county.

One version from Middlesboro to the Associated Press here says that reports at Middlesboro are that three men, on train No. 24, awaiting transfer to the Cincinnati train at Corbin, were ripped open and registered letters to the value of $50,000 were stolen. It adds a man wearing the description of a prowler about the Corbin railroad station was caught at Jellico.

Meanwhile another report from Pineville to the Louisville Times says that the pay roll of the Wisconsin Steel Company amounting to approximately $50,000 weekly and usually arriving on Friday, the money the Pineville report says, was shipped by a Cincinnati bank.

The Louisville police today confirmed the rumor that a registered mail pouch was stolen at Corbin.

REDISTRICTING DEAD, SAYS JOHN LANGLEY

(By Associated Press.)
Louisville, Feb. 11.—A Post-Whisper special today says "You may quote me as saying that the redistricting bill is dead under the feet of Representative John Langley, of Kentucky, after a conference today with Representative Newton, of Missouri, and Senator Lodge, republican leader. Langley said Lodge has agreed that the bill will not be reported out of the Senate. The reason for snuffing it, the Post's correspondent says, is that it probably will jeopardize the political existence of republican members of Congress from Kentucky and Missouri, and adds that it means their legislators will not have a chance to redistrict after the election.

(By Associated Press.)
Louisville, Ky., Feb. 11.—"They aren't totting their lunches this year," say managers of cafeterias here in discussing the question of whether or not office workers in Louisville are as frugal as during the war and the subsequent high price period. The general reduction in food prices, they agree, has proved beneficial to the restaurant men.

JOHN WALKER BALLARD DIES IN NEW MEXICO

Prominent Young Man Succumbs to Great White Plague, Contracted in the Army

Sudden, though not altogether unexpected was the news Friday evening of the death of John Walker Ballard, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ballard, which took place in Tucuman, New Mexico, Wednesday, after a long illness of tuberculosis, supposed to have been contracted while in the army.

Two years ago his mother went with him to Asheville, where they spent several months, without any marked improvement. Physicians then advised a change to Tucuman, but he failed to rally to the treatment there and death relieved his suffering.

John Walker was loved by his associates for his affable manner. He always had a pleasant smile and cheerful greeting for every one and just why he fell asleep at the zenith of his usefulness, when projected, were brightest and when he had everything to live for, man knows not, but he'll know hereafter.

The loving and affectionate devotion and administration of his faithful mother, whose love he was, were pathetically beautiful. She has been constantly at his bedside, never having left him during the two years' illness.

Funeral services will take place Saturday afternoon at the grave in Richmond cemetery, the body arriving at noon. Dr. R. L. Telford will conduct the service.

Mr. Ballard was about 37 years old and is survived by his father and mother, and two sisters, Mrs. Mason Dunn and Miss Mary Ballard.

MAYS MAY COLLECT A MILLION FOR STATE

More than $1,425,000 will be collected by Kentucky in ad valorem taxes on oil properties in Estill county, if the judgment of the Estill circuit court holding that the companies are liable for ad valorem taxes is sustained by the court of appeals. Owners of oil properties resisted payment of the ad valorem tax on the ground that the one per cent tax on the market price of the oil is in lieu of all other taxes.

The suits to collect the ad valorem taxes were brought by W. O. Mays, revenue agent, who estimates that the state will collect $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 in ad valorem taxes on oil properties in the oil-producing counties of the state.

OTHER COUNTIES STILL AFTER FEDERAL AID

Committee Sent to Washington to Secure Reopening of Highway Thru to Hardyville

Five of the seven counties interested in the proposed Federal Highway through Lancaster and this section of the state were represented at the road meeting held at the court house in Danville on Tuesday. Mr. J. E. Robinson, of Lancaster, president of the road organization, was chairman of the meeting, and Henry McElroy, of Lebanon, was the secretary. About 25 representatives from Garrard, Boyle, Marion, Green and Taylor counties were present.

Quite a number of speeches were made and it was the consensus of opinion that the federal government can be induced to approve the highway through this section. It was stated that an official had recently disapproved the proposed road, but in view of the fact that all necessary funds are ready to build the highway that the government would reconsider the matter if the question was properly put before the department at Washington.

A motion was adopted authorizing the chairman to appoint a committee to go to Washington and present the claims of the various counties to the department of roads, and the following were named: Henry L. McElroy, of Marion; Woodson Lewis, Green; Vernon Richardson, of Boyle; and Judge L. L. Walker, of Garrard county. These men were asked to go to Washington at the earliest possible time and ask that the disapproval of the project be changed.

A motion also passed at the meeting to the effect that county judges of each of the seven counties appoint one representative each to form an executive committee for the purpose of working on federal highway project. W. P. Myers, of Marion, and J. A. Cheek, of Boyle, were suggested as two of the members of the executive committee and others will be named later.

BOLZAK ADJUDGED INTOXICATING DRINK

Circuit Court Fines $20 and Costs For Its Sale in Town—Murder Trial February 28

A jury in circuit court has adjudged that Bolzak is an intoxicating liquor. Thus the mooted question has been settled as far as local sales are concerned—unless some other jury comes along and rule that it is not. For the uninitiated it might be well to explain that Bolzak is supposed to be a patent medicine of some sort, the principal virtue of which, it is said, is its large alcoholic content. Police men say that there has been quite a demand for it created among those who have been unable to secure anything else with a "kick" to it. Anyway, Clerk Lamb of this city, was fined $20 and costs in circuit court for selling Bolzak. She had appealed from a previous conviction in the Richmond police court, on the ground that selling Bolzak does not come within the purview of the prohibition law.

The case of Odie Mann, charged with disturbing a peace officer out in the county, was re-scheduled for trial on February 28th.

Sallie Johnson, colored, charged with the murder of her lover, Holt Elmore, by stabbing him with an ice pick, entered a plea of not guilty and had her case assigned for trial Feb. 28th. She is in jail without bail.

Frank Williams, charged with housebreaking, will also have his trial on the 28th.

The grand jury completely exonerated Jack Hardin, and refused to indict him on a charge of assault and battery preferred by a negro man, whom Hardin sought to question in his capacity as a police officer of the city.

The grand jury refused to indict Squire Williams, on a charge of violating the local option law.

When the case against Joe Powell, charged with operating an illicit still was called, it was suggested to the court that he is dead, so the case was stricken from the docket.

James Addison was given a fine of $100, 10 days in jail and disfranchisement on a charge of carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

Tom Todd, colored, was given a year in the penitentiary on a charge of deserting his infant children.

A jury found Millard Mulligan not guilty on a charge of false swearing.

GRAND JURY SENDS IN 37 INDICTMENTS

One of the features of the present term of the Madison circuit court is the hard work which the grand jury is doing. Already 37 indictments have been returned and more are said to be on their way. A big batch was brought into court on Friday, a large number of them being for gambling in town in various ways. There are said to be several indictments for illicit sale of liquor also.

Judge Shackelford gave the members of the grand jury an extra instruction on Thursday in regard to perjury. He told them that every man must be taught to respect the sanctity of the oath and that the grand jury ought to watch carefully and see that the law against false swearing is not violated.

At the same time he told the grand jury that the jailer had reported that James Shepherd had escaped from the road gang. This, the Judge said, is an offense, and an indictment should be returned against Shepherd for escaping from an officer or from prison, if they found the facts as suggested to him by the jailer.

COULDN'T FIND STILL AT BIG HILL

But Portion of One Was Uncovered in Rockcastle and Real Outfit in Tennessee

Returning from a two days' raid in the Big Hill section of Madison county and south of Berea over into Rockcastle county, a party of prohibition enforcement officers out of the Lexington office, and headed by Chief U. G. McFarland, reported that the only thing they got was part of an old still. This was found in Rockcastle county and destroyed. The fermenter and other portions of the still were discovered, back in the hills, but no liquor, and there was no evidence upon which the officers could base an arrest.

The raiders made their headquarters in Richmond on these trips. The first day out, the officers combed the Big Hill section of Madison county. Reports have been coming for some time that plenty of moonshine was being made in that section. The officers climbed hills and valleys all day in mud and rain, but couldn't find a trace of a still. They returned to Berea over the night, then caught an early train for the south and headed Rockcastle county, and got in another day in mud and rain, with but scant reward.

In the evening when the raiding parties, Chief McFarland, were Revenue Officers J. K. Kavanaugh, Ben P. Epps, C. L. Wrenn and Steve Cornett.

Just before coming onto this section the officers made a real haul in Tennessee, south of Knoxville. They left Knoxville at midnight, rode for 70 miles in automobiles, and reached their destination at daybreak. They found what they said was the most complete amateur barroom outfit that they have yet encountered. In addition to an up-to-date still for making moonshine whisky, the interior of the house was fitted up for its sale in style that was approved before the dry days set in. There was a bar, with a rail in front and other conveniences for the patrons. Over the door hung a Winchester rifle, with other arms scattered about. About 250 gallons of whisky was seized. The surprise was complete, the officers making the seizure before the owners could offer the least resistance. The whole thing was destroyed and the men taken before federal court officials in Tennessee for hearings.

RECOGNITION OF FAITHFUL WORK

Having served more than 21 years in the field work of the International Harvester Company, William Howard, of this city, has just received notice that he has been retired by the company on a salary pension for the rest of his life. He will be succeeded in this territory by Mr. J. W. Clark, who will not have his headquarters at Richmond, however, but will travel the 10 counties of Mr. Howard's old district.

During his more than a score of years with the International, Mr. Howard has sold perhaps more farmers' machinery than any other man in this part of Kentucky. He has seen the latest type of improved farm machinery developed from the crude implements of a quarter of a century ago, and throughout the years has kept in touch with such development, until there isn't a man anywhere better versed in the actual needs of a present day farmer in the machinery and tool line than he. The company pays him the highest of compliments in its letter notifying him of his lifetime pension.

FORDSON

Hitherto the farmer has woven the power of his own muscles with those of the ox, the mule, and the horse, in the development of agriculture. Practical machinery for farming has come to him slowly. Where the value of machinery in labor saving, in profit-making, in usefulness, in comfort, in luxuries has in the past been largely confined to the towns and cities, it is now open to the farmer who is beyond all question the very bone and sinew of civilization. Civilization grows upon the land, therefore the land is Father and Mother and Sustainer to the human race, and those who till the soil, who plow, reap and sow, are surely the essentials in human existence. Therefore, Machine Power on the Farm is of the utmost importance and the Fordson Tractor comes to the farmer as the best, we believe, piece of machinery that has yet been devised for his use.

We want you to read the book "The Fordson at Work." It is free for the asking. Call in and get one. Drop us a card and we will mail you one without charge. This booklet is along the line of the usual Ford way of giving the testimony of the users, those who have tried out and know the real value of the Fordson Tractor. This book shows the Fordson at work in some ninety lines of activity and to the farmer it presents the most valuable evidence of an all-around serviceable, economical, labor-saving machine that has ever been placed upon the market. We can only get so many each month, so leave your order now.

The Hardest Job in Every Business

In nearly every line production has been increased on account of the war. The hardest job ahead is to find a market in peace times for what those factories turn out. Money is made—not in manufacturing—but in selling. Yet selling seldom receives the attention it deserves.

The number of factories a manufacturer can build—the profit he can earn—are limited by the amount of merchandise for which he can find a profitable market.

If demand can be kept ahead of production, a profitable market is sure. And the one way to keep demand ahead of production is by advertising—teaching the public to use more of your goods.

In the past the South has bent her energies on manufacturing. The marketing of her products were largely left to others who took the raw materials and staples and converted them into specialties, trade-marked, advertised and sold them. And, invariably, it is the selling of specialties that pays the wide margin of profit and the selling of staples that pays the slim.

Greater profits—keeping conditions in our hands instead of on them—depend upon our marketing our goods as well as upon our making them.

The South's cotton goods should be known by brand-names in Detroit just as we know and buy the various makes of automobiles produced by the citizens of that enterprising Michigan city.

Lumber, of which the South is the Nation's greatest possessor, will be needed for reconstruction and the merits of our various woods should be convincingly told by advertising.

The South is the greatest fat-producing section of America. In the vegetable oils from her cotton-seed, peanuts and soy beans she produces more fat than all the dairy cows of America—more fat than all the hogs slaughtered in a year. More Southern-made and marketed compound lards and salad oils would bring additional millions into Dixie.

Cane syrup, coffees and all the other epicurean delights for which the South is famed would find a bigger demand if backed by the adequate advertising. And such a demand would automatically fix a profitable price.

Marketing our products as well as making them would furnish work for the hands and brains of our returning sons—provide room for the tallest ambition and stop the emigration to the North and West of the talented and ambitious.

There was a time when we could sell the merchant and let him push the goods. But today the hardware, grocery and drug stores will carry from 2,000 to 10,000 different items. Pushing any one is impossible.

Wise manufacturers are marking their goods so that they can be recognized—telling the public about their merits and inducing the folks to pull them off of the shelves. And in this respect, at least, an ounce of "pull" is worth a pound of "push."

The advertising agencies of the South have had years of experience in advertising and marketing many commodities. They know the methods that have proved successful, because their whole time is engrossed with the problems of selling.

Their contact with leading manufacturers in many lines has made them intimate with various methods of winning trade—methods of securing distribution—fighting substitution. It is their business to know how business is being built.

Their services cost nothing. They are paid a commission by the publishers to make advertising profitable to the manufacturer. It will be a revelation to many business men to know the varied forms of assistance these agencies can render—information on markets, containers, trademark law, distribution methods, dealer cooperation, service in preparing booklets, copy-writing and real information on the value of different classes of advertising media.

Write, wire or phone any of the accredited advertising agencies of the South and arrange a conference with them to discuss how to increase sales. Let them help you solve the hardest job ahead.

SHORT MILLION HOMES IN GREAT BRITAIN

Shortage in London Alone Is 150,000 and Rent Sign Quickly Draws Crowd.

It is estimated that London is short 150,000 houses and Premier Lloyd George, speaking in the house of commons, has placed the total house shortage for the whole of the United Kingdom at roughly 1,000,000.

A house for rent notice board in London quickly attracts a crowd. Housing is a department of the ministry of health and, by legislative aid, local authorities are required to submit housing schemes. Thousands of schemes have been submitted, but progress has been very slow.

Perhaps the chief reason for this has been the economic factor. Houses which cost three or four times as much to build as before the war, can not obviously let or sell at prewar figures.

Nevertheless, according to government statistics, some 60,000 new houses were started in 1920 and the number contracted for has risen during the year from 10,000 to 125,000.

One striking feature of the effort to provide for the need for housing is conducted by the office of works, which was empowered to spend $20,000,000 spread over eighteen months. Its operations started in Canterbury, a South London borough. An arrangement was made by which, the office of works supplied the plans, material and supervision, while the local Federation of Trades unions supplied the labor and the borough council assumed responsibility for the houses. The plan worked smoothly and houses were built for $12,000 apiece, a saving of at least $1,000, making a total saving to taxpayers of $2,000,000. This scheme may become the embryo of a state building department.

The financial difficulties connected with the housing problem have been responsible for the creation by local authorities of interest-bearing "housing bonds," which are in some localities a fairly popular investment.

In the north of England, concrete houses have become popular, as timber largely replaces iron power in their erection. In some parts of London, too, such houses have been built recently, owing to the shortage of bricks, the high rate of wages and other difficulties.

"LANGUID"—THAT'S THE WORD

Not Sick Exactly, Just Seem to Have No Ambition

An Awful Feeling Seldom Necessary

Pepto-Mangan, the Red Blood Builder, Does Away With Languor

If you don't feel like doing a thing, you won't. If you wonder where some people get all their energy, the answer is from good food which in turn makes rich, red blood.

If your food does not give the nourishment and vigor it should, it is most likely that your blood is so weak that it needs a little extra help for a time to build it up to normal strength.

Thousands of men and women have been restored to vigorous health and lasting happiness by Gude's Pepto-Mangan. This beneficial blood tonic contains the very properties so vitally needed to improve the blood, Pepto-Mangan, if taken for a few weeks, will enrich the blood and create thousands of the tiny red blood cells that are so necessary to carry nourishment and strength to every part of the body.

Be sure to ask your druggist for "Gude's" when you order Pepto-Mangan. For convenience it is prepared in liquid and tablet form, both possessing exactly the same medicinal properties. "Gude's" is the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Look for the name "Gude's" on the package. Adv.

For The Children

VILLA DIGGING UP GOLD

Former Bandit Chief Stripping Caches of Buried Treasure.

For several weeks past Francisco Villa, former king of bandits in Mexico, now living the quiet life of a farmer on a ranch given to him by the government, has been going about from point to point in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, on mysterious visits. Friends of Villa in El Paso, Tex., declare he is collecting loot which he buried during the balmy days of his banditry.

During his years of raiding Villa stole millions of pesos. Much of this, particularly when it was in gold coin, he buried in isolated parts of Chihuahua.

Now that he has become a "gentleman farmer" he is said to be visiting his caches one by one and removing his treasure. His friends say he has recovered many thousands of pesos and that he intends giving it back to his victims.
